Biography

Cynthia Eve began her love of cosplaying in 2017 when attending a small Missouri convention held at her local library. After seeing the incredible community that conventions and cosplay had to offer, she started cosplaying more and hasn't stopped since. Wanting to develop her craft more with each new project, she does the utmost research and strives to have the keenest eye for detail in everything she does. Since starting seven years ago, she has received many recognitions for her work, such as competing and winning several awards across the Midwest. She says that competing has always been one of her favorite parts of conventions because she can show off the fine detail she incorporates into each of her projects. Since then, her love for cosplay has grown from finding materials at her local thrift store to now creating and sewing her own cosplays. Her mission is to empower cosplayers by educating them on how to be skilled makers and captivating performers.
